

TOP SECRET

SCREENWRITERS' EYES
ONLY

CONGRATULATIONS.

You have been selected to be a part of the Young Storytellers Program, which is only the coolest program on Earth. You were chosen because you're one of the coolest kids, so it makes sense that you'd be part of the coolest program.

Before we get started, we need to ask you some questions. Some of them you might know the answer to, and some you might not. It doesn't matter if you get them right or wrong or don't know. Just circle the answer you think is the best one. The test is multiple-choice, like lots of tests that you take. Only this one is more fun. And if you get all the questions right, you might get a car!*

*Not from us. Just, like, later. You might get a car. At some point in your life. That's all we're saying.

Here comes the first question. We need to know your first and last name. (We're secretly hoping you know this one.)

First Name:

Last Name:

Okay. You caught us. That wasn't the real first question. Are you ready? No, seriously, are you? Because you kinda don't look ready.

Oh, wait. I was looking in the mirror. That's me. I don't look ready. My bad. Here we go:

1. In the movie "Finding Nemo," Nemo was a:

- a) Fish
- b) Frog
- c) Fingerling potato
- d) Flower

2. Another word for the antagonist in a story is:

- a) Setting
- b) Hero
- c) Bad guy
- d) Theme

3. All of these might be a good goal for a character in a story, EXCEPT:

- a) Finding your way home
- b) Getting stuck in a traffic jam
- c) Saving the princess from an evil French fry

- d) Becoming the leader of a secret tribe of flying giraffes
4. The name Miley Cyrus uses when she's a performer is:
- a) Mona Arizona
 - b) Hannah Montana
 - c) Tricia Lynn Michigan
 - d) Nouri Missouri
5. All of these are elements of setting, EXCEPT:
- a) dialogue
 - b) time
 - c) place
 - d) INT./EXT.
6. Denouement is a fancy French word that means:
- a) The final showdown with the antagonist
 - b) The setting of the story
 - c) The way that a character says his dialogue
 - d) The resolution of the story
7. A good reason to tie your shoes is:
- a) It's the law
 - b) It's scientifically proven to be all the exercise you need in a day
 - c) To keep spiders and other creepy crawly things trapped inside them
 - d) None of the above
8. The scene in a screenplay changes every time...
- a) The setting changes
 - b) The protagonist speaks
 - c) A new character speaks
 - d) All of the above
9. A synonym for obstacle is:
- a) objective
 - b) problem
 - c) courage
 - d) denouement

10. A really good name for a pet bird would be:
- a) Bird
 - b) Feathers McGoo
 - c) Dog
 - d) Elaine
11. When the characters in a story speak, it's called:
- a) Setting
 - b) Dialogue
 - c) Prologue
 - d) Climax
12. A screenplay is:
- a) The written down version of a movie
 - b) The way an actor says his or her lines
 - c) The summary of a movie
 - d) The best parts of a movie
13. Finish this title: The Suite Life of _____
- a) Jack and Mowgli
 - b) Sacks of Snowpeas
 - c) Max and Joely
 - d) Zack and Cody
14. What do you use a parenthetical for?
- a) To catch a wild zebra.
 - b) To tell an actor how to say a line or let them know an emotion
 - c) To write a characters name
 - d) To describe the setting
15. "A bird wanted to fly. So one day, he did." This wouldn't make a good screenplay yet because:
- a) Birds don't make good protagonists.
 - b) There are no obstacles in the story.
 - c) The bird needs an objective.
 - d) The story ends happily.

16. Last one. What is your ethnicity?

- a) White/Caucasian
- b) Black/African-American
- c) Latino/Hispanic
- d) Asian
- e) Other - Something else not written here.

There! You did it! You're done. That was pretty painless, wasn't it? Now look outside...

Do you see a car?!!!

Because I can't remember where I parked mine. Anyway, not your problem. Thanks for answering these questions. Now get ready to have some serious fun while learning something seriously fun.

Seriously. Get ready to have fun. You still don't look ready. You've got that "unready" look that you do sometimes. Oh, wait – that's me, in the mirror again. Why are there so many mirrors in here?

Fasten your seatbelts – it's about to get CINEMATIC. To infinity, and beyond! We can't wait to get started!